School of Year, Again

The College has won its second School of the Year title in the national song-writing competition "Play it Strange". Three Kaipara students will have their songs recorded on the CD.

Salote King was 4th in New Zealand with her song "The Violent Hour". Congratulations, Salote!

Jordan Lane was in the top 40 with his song "I've Got Dreams". Jordan is in Year 13 and this is his first year of Music. Great Achievement Jordan!

Avalon Hewitt was also in the top 40 with her song "Nothing to You". This is the third year in succession that Avalon has been recorded in this contest. Outstanding! Avalon also entered the Peace Song contest that was run alongside the Play it Strange competition. Her song "The Night" was in the top 5.

The combined results gave the College its School of the Year title. A repeat of our musicians' achievements in 2008.

Charlotte Clouston - Mountain Biker

Head Girl, Charlotte Clouston leaves with the New Zealand team for the World Mountain-biking Championships next week. First there will be a World Cup event in New York before the Worlds at Mont St Anne in Quebec, Canada.

Charlotte will race the U19 Women's Downhill at both events.

Good Luck, Charlotte!

Melodie Protheroe - Photographer

Year 13 photography student, Melodie Protheroe has had one of her photographs published in the College Herald winning her $100.

This is her second award. Last year she won an award at the New Zealand Secondary Schools' Ilford Photography competition.
